

States Matter: Politics, Policies, Programs, & Health

Wednesday, February 8, 2017 | 3:30pm – 5:00pm

Jerome Greene Hall Room 107
435 West 116th Street

From the Affordable Care Act to reproductive choice, at the national level there is a great deal of turmoil and uncertainty regarding policies that shape health. Sometimes lost in that conversation is the critical role that policies and programs at the state or municipal level play in shaping population health. In this panel, CPRC faculty will share recent research on how politics as well as state-level policies and programs affect health outcomes.

Mark Hatzenbuehler
Associate Prof. of Sociomedical Sciences

Sally Findley
Prof. of Clinical Population & Family
Health and
Sociomedical Sciences

Constance Nathanson
Prof. of Sociomedical
Sciences and
Population & Family
Health

Jennifer Hirsch
Prof. of Sociomedical
Sciences

