As official relationships between states and countries change, cruising immigration becomes immensely challenging. “Lives of Immigrants: Rights and Responsibilities” brings together newly elected leaders from Mexican cities, community leaders and officials in NY city and scholars to engage in a dialogue to create spaces for binational communities to build and better lives and ease two-way migrant movements across Mexico and the United States.